Since the first day of classes, I felt supported by staff and professors. I remember going to my seminar professor, afraid of failing one of my classes. She listened and showed me the many resources on campus, such as tutors, Counseling and Psychological Services, and office hours. She always checked in with me about how my classes and life were going. With all the support, I was able to get excellent grades and had my name on the dean's list!”

“

My major allows me to gain a lot of hands-on experience during and outside class. In my classes, we perform in-class exercises and practice concepts in the form of assignments. Through clubs and organizations, I get a chance to work with professional equipment, learn in the field, and work with and learn from my peers who have similar interests.”
