

Grants, Fellowships, and the Renewable Career

A discussion led by Paul Hamill and Will Kay, the College's grants officers, on grant seeking as part of a multi-sided faculty career pattern; they will also talk about current trends in the grants world and the services in research or grant/fellowship preparation that their offices can provide.

Paul handles federal grants and most research proposals to foundations; as a former director of faculty development, he is attuned to how external opportunities can support professional growth and personal renewal.

Will is the grant officer for most foundation and corporate proposals, and will discuss how to work with the grants office to find sources and define projects to meet guidelines.
