

2006
FACULTY AWARD

Stacy A. Kuzmick

I am from the little town of Johnston, Ohio, where there are more cornfields than people. My interest for physical therapy arose when I participated in physical therapy myself following a soccer injury. I also chose physical therapy as my major because there are so many different specialty areas in which physical therapists can work in.

I have had too many memorable experiences while at Ithaca College to just briefly describe one. However, I believe it is the people I have met and the friends that I have made here in the past four years that has truly made Ithaca a remarkable place.
