

H & S Check Frequently Asked Questions

Q: Why do we have Health and Safety Checks?

A: We all live in a communal setting, and thus need to have certain rules in place to ensure that everyone is safe and comfortable. The college and fire marshal have identified items and behaviors that are dangerous to the community, and the checks allow staff members to identify violations, and work with students to address them.

Q: Who performs the checks? What if no one is in the room?

A: All checks are performed by Residential Life and or Environmental Health and Safety staff. Most checks happen when residents have left campus for a break period. Two staff members will enter together.

Q: When do these checks happen?

A: We will inspect your space four times a year: once in September, and at the start of the Thanksgiving, Winter, and Spring breaks. Be on the look out for more information from your RD.

Q: I was fined for a violation that was not on my side of the room or space. It was on my roommates' side. Why am I being fined?

A: All residents of a bedroom are held accountable, and all residents are accountable for violations in the common spaces. You all live in a shared space, and all must work to ensure that all polices are followed. Please review this document with your apartment mate(s).

Q: What happens if a violation is found?

A: If a violation is found during the September checks, you will be given a written warning and be asked to remove the violation. Dangerous items, like propane tanks, are confiscated right away, and are subject to judicial fines and sanctions. All violations found during other checks are subject to judicial fines and sanctions.

Q: My violation has been there since the previous check and no one has said anything until now. Why am I being fined now?

A: Sometimes we miss the violation during checks. It is unfortunate, but it does happen, and it does not exempt you from being fined when the violation is discovered.

Q: What if I have questions?

A: Most of your questions will be answered in this guide. If you have additional questions, feel free to contact your Resident Assistant, the Residence Director, or visit www.ithaca.edu/reslife/rl_guide/health_and_safety.htm. We are happy to answer any questions to ensure that we live in safe community.

Q: I own hunting equipment. May I store it on campus?

A: You may not store any hunting equipment in the apartments, but the Office of Public Safety is happy to store them for you during the academic year. Please call (607) 274-3333 for more information about this free service.

H & S Check Judicial Fines & Action

It is important to keep our halls a safe place for everyone in the community. If you are found in violation of the Health and Safety policies, each person in the space will be held accountable in the following manner:

- $25 fine
- Removal of Item
- Judicial Sanction

Please note that all judicial sanctions will increase every time a violation is discovered. Fines are not assessed during the educational checks in September as long as the space is brought to compliance by the given date.

When violations are identified, students will be informed of the violation, given an outline of potential outcomes, and invited to meet with a Residence Director to discuss judicial charges.

Sanctions may include: written warnings, reflection papers, special projects, seminars, disciplinary probation and removal from college housing. Sanctions are assigned based on the severity of the violation, and your judicial history.

If other violations are observed (such as the possession of stolen property, or drugs) they will be documented and you will be held judicially responsible.

The fines associated with health and safety violations will appear on your student bill. However, these fines are not appealable.

NOTICE: This document is not a comprehensive listing of all health and safety violations and prohibited items. Please refer to our website, or ask your RD if you are unsure about a policy or item.
